REPORT FOR 1893.

If the old saying, "Happy the country that has no annals," holds true of other things, it should be true of this twentieth year of work of the Boston Training School for Nurses, as there are no marked events for the Directors to report, and all has gone along steadily and well under the faithful care of the Superintendent.

The number of nurses graduated this year, 1893, is identical with that of last year,—namely, 31; and the number of accepted probationers is the same,—36. We were obliged to drop 3 nurses from failure of health, 1 failed in examination, 1 died, and 1 was dismissed. There were also 30 probationers not accepted at the end of their probationary month. The present number of head nurses is 11; pupils, 55; probationers, 6.

The same careful training of the nurses as in former years continues in all practical nursing, preparation of food, care of the patient, etc. They have weekly lectures given them by the kindness of members of the Hospital Staff, supplemented by text-book drill from the Superintendent. The House Officers always give the nurses much excellent bedside instruction, and this year especially have given them bandaging lessons of great value.

The nurses' health has been very good through the year, and they all maintain a constant and cheerful spirit of interest in their work.

One item has added distinctly to the nurses' pleasure and comfort this year in the change to late dinners, which the Superintendent of the Hospital has arranged for them, at the same time much enlarging and varying their diet list.

The Board of Directors has lost this year one of its original members, Miss Wales, who most actively worked in all the difficult establishment of training nurses in the Massachusetts General Hospital. She was for many years Secretary of the Board; and her careful knowledge of all the details of the work was of greatest service, and her active and faithful interest continued to the very last of her life, and leaves a much felt gap in the Board.

The Board met a serious loss in the death of Dr. Strong last winter. He had always had a warm interest in the Training School, and gave his time freely as lecturer and examiner of the nurses; and his loss is much felt. The Board of Lecturers has also lost by death Dr. Carter, and we feel gratefully how much they gave of their time and strength to help train our nurses.

Though the twenty years since we began have brought the routine work of hospital training to very good results, still we are always striving to better them, and constantly try to graduate nurses with higher ideals of their duty, who will go out into the world and carry help and comfort where it is needed, and honor their profession by noble endeavor.

The days of "Sairy Gamp" are past; but there is a certain danger of looking at nursing as a purely "profitable occupation," and not as one demanding a woman's highest and best qualities, mentally and morally.

We hope our friends will continue to remember that, though we have been at work twenty years, we are not self-supporting by any means, and need their help in money as well as interest; and we hope the results we have been able to show will move them to continue their support.

BOSTON TRAINING SCHOOL FOR NURSES

ATTACHED TO THE

MASSACHUSETTS GENERAL HOSPITAL IN BOSTON.

The Directors of the Boston Training School for Nurses have made arrangements with the Trustees of the Massachusetts General Hospital for giving a two years' training to women desirous of becoming professional nurses.

Persons wishing to receive this course of instruction must apply to the Superintendent of the Boston Training School, Massachusetts General Hospital, Blossom Street, Boston, Mass.

The most desirable age for candidates is from twenty-five to thirty-five years. They must be in good health, and must refer to some responsible person as to their moral character. After approval by the Superintendent of the School and the Resident Physician of the Hospital, they are received for one month on probation. During this month they are boarded and lodged at the Hospital, but receive no compensation.

They are under the authority of the Resident Physician and the Superintendent, and are subject to the Rules of the School and of the Hospital. Their fitness for the work, and the propriety of retaining or dismissing them at the end of the month of trial, are determined by the Resident Physician and the Superintendent and Directors of the School; and the same authorities can also discharge them at any time during their connection with the School, in case of misconduct or inefficiency. They reside in the Hospital, and serve as assistant nurses in the wards. When on service, they are required to wear the Hospital uniform.

TRAINING.

Those fulfilling the conditions of the probationary month are accepted as pupils. They must sign a written agreement to remain at the School for two years (including the probationary month), and to conform to its rules.

The instruction includes: —

1. The dressing of burns, sores, and wounds; the preparation and application of fomentations, poultices, cups, leeches, and of minor dressings.

2. The administration of enemata, the use of the catheter, and the giving of baths.

3. The principles of massage, with practical workings.

4. The care of the patient's room; the making of beds; the principles of ventilation, and their practical application.

5. The management and care of helpless patients; the prevention and treatment of bed-sores.

6. The manufacture of bandages; the application of bandages and splints.

7. Emergencies and their treatment.

8. The preparation, cooking, and serving of food; the use of stimulants.

They are also taught how to observe accurately the secretions, expectorations, pulse, skin, appetite, temperature, sleep, eruptions, and the effect of diet, stimulants, and medicine. They are also instructed with regard to the management of convalescents. The instruction is given mainly by the Superintendent and by the Head Nurses. Lectures, recitations, and demonstrations, by members of the Hospital Staff, also take place at stated periods.

Examinations, conducted by a Board of Medical Examiners, are held quarterly.

The pupils are employed as assistant nurses in the wards of the Hospital, and receive ten dollars ($10) a month (after the probationary month) during the first year, and fourteen dollars ($14) a month during the second year, for their personal expenses. The education during this time is considered a full equivalent for their services. During both years of the course they board and lodge at the Hospital. Their washing is also done at the expense of the Hospital. Pupils are required to come prepared to pay for their uniform at the close of the probationary month. The expense of the uniform will not exceed twelve dollars.

When the full term of two years is satisfactorily completed, a diploma is given certifying to their period of training, their proficiency and moral character. The Training School provides a badge to which graduates are entitled on the payment of seven dollars.

The Directors reserve the right to terminate the connection of a pupil with the School for any reason which they may deem sufficient.

A graduate of this School, who desires to acquire a special proficiency in the care of cases of nervous and mental diseases, has the privilege, under certain restrictions, of entering the McLean Asylum Training School for Nurses. Such graduates will, after one year's satisfactory study, receive the diploma from that School, in addition to the one received from the Boston Training School.

Boston Training School for Nurses, January, 1894.
